Environments that Empower

When you work with SupplySource Office Interiors, you have everyone and everything you need: to envision and design your interior space; to plan work flow and work areas that help you do your best; to create healthy, sustainable environments that make your organization successful.

Since 1984 we have been creating environments that empower:

- ▶ Empowering your people to work better, smarter, safer, and happier.
- ▶ Empowering your technology to serve you as it ought to do, by integrating it into all aspects of the design and installation.
- ▶ Empowering your budget, by using our skills and experience at contract management to get you the best possible pricing and value.
- ▶ Empowering your organization, helping you get what you want and manage what you have.

Your vision, our mission: work places that welcome people each day and send them home again satisfied with time well spent. We serve the people at the heart of your organization with flexible work space design and furniture that addresses their specific job functions and needs...by giving them good ergonomics...by creating great places to meet and interact for breaks, creative collaboration, and rejuvenation.

SupplySource is your single source for interior design, furniture specification, project management, contract management, and installation.

We have the stability and long-term industry presence to help you manage your image while you manage your facilities, fulfilling your project needs now and years from now with continuity.

You benefit from our purchasing impact. (SupplySource is the largest contract interiors firm in Pennsylvania.) Through our contract experience and full-time contract managers, we negotiate the most favorable pricing for you. We belong to many purchasing groups and alliances, are a certified Herman Miller dealer, and offer furnishings and accessories from hundreds of manufacturers.

Your SupplySource project manager meets regularly with your contractor, coordinating schedules to get the job done – on time.

We employ full-time installers trained to handle everything we supply. In today's security-conscious world, this is too important to contract out to untrained laborers.

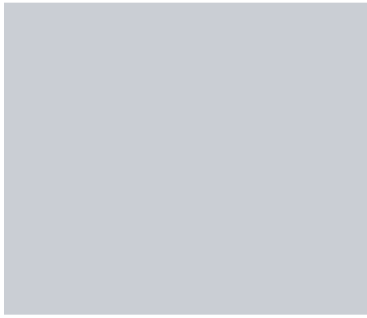

Because the elements of your office interior constitute a business asset, we stay on the job with you to honor any needs under the warranty and make sure all pieces are performing. If you have a furniture standards program, we can give you price advantages and consistency, with tools like e-commerce to make it easier.

Whether it's a single chair or a long-term contract relationship, SupplySource values your business and strives to exceed your expectations.

Reception Areas & Lounge Spaces

Welcome guests with a first impression that reflects your company's style and values. Inviting lounge and waiting areas help people relax, prepare for key meetings, and connect to celebrate and learn from one another. We help you make these areas serene, yet energizing. Custom-designed wood furniture, personally selected accessories, and local, regional, or national artwork add distinction and value to these spaces.

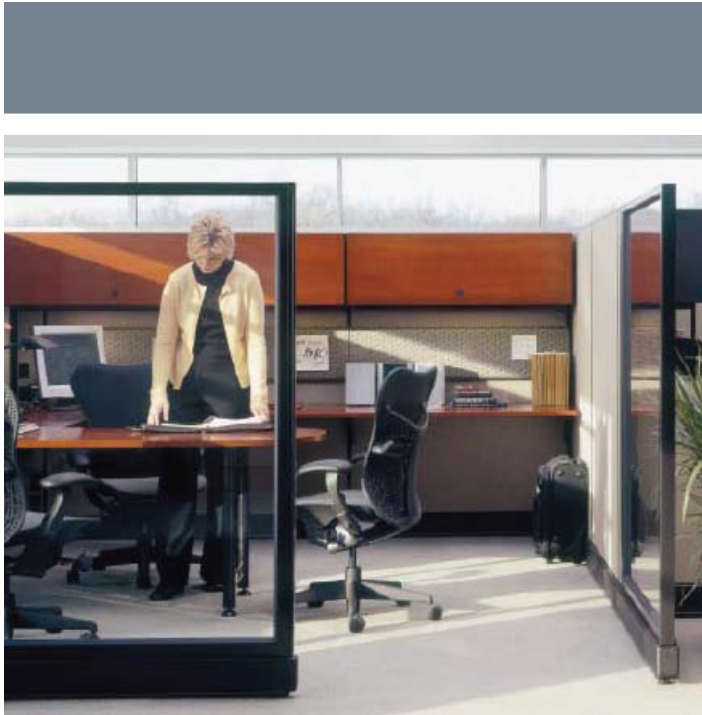

Conference Rooms & Training Areas

Collaborate with your team in meetings small or large. When rooms must serve many functions, you need furniture that moves and reconfigures easily... tables in many shapes that can take on many roles... and presentation accessories designed to support your technology. Make the most of your budget by incorporating long-lasting components with flexible functionality.

Workstations

Create space that connects people to each other and their surroundings. The open-plan office furniture system lets light in, fosters equality, and allows free expression. Enjoy the balance of working alone or working with others, and use the flexibility to expand in response to change. Special features put needed items at reach, allow clutter to be put away, accommodate technology, and blend professional function with personal touches and comfort.

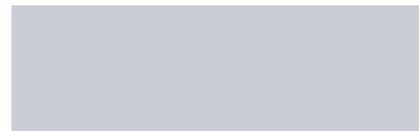

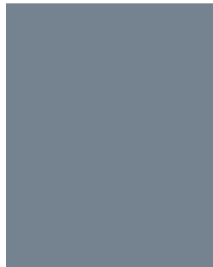

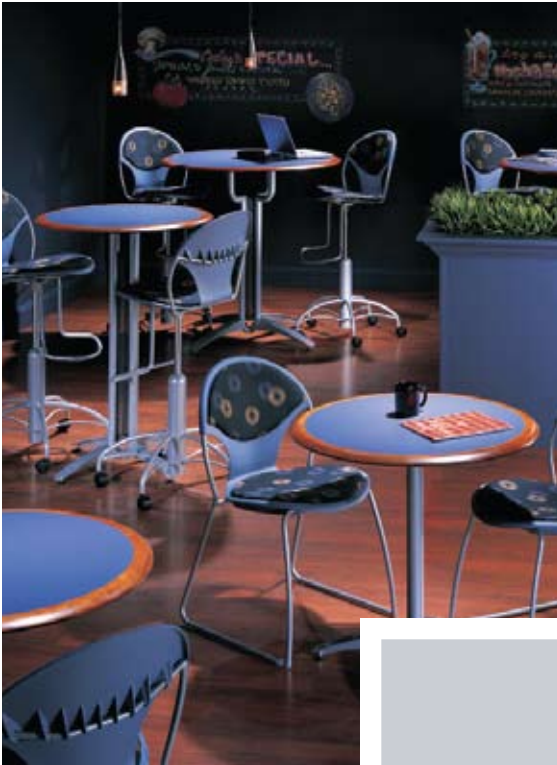

Executive Offices

The executive office empowers you to accomplish your tasks, express your personal style, and reflect your corporate culture. You can select from many traditional or contemporary pieces, choose laminates or wood, and discover the most ergonomic chairs to suit your preferences. Whether working long hours, entertaining clients, or holding private meetings, these functional, yet beautiful surroundings help you to do it better.

Cafés, Break-Out Areas & Dining

For these high-traffic areas we carry furnishings that stack, flex, nest, fold, flip, and move - helping you expand function and making it easier to keep these areas spotless. Café and dining centers meet the needs of body and mind - to refuel, reconnect, and recharge. More than just coffee or lunch, they give you a place to meet friends and make new ones. Break-out areas provide the change of scene needed for fresh ideas.

Environments that Empower

Environmental Awareness

As a certified Herman Miller dealer, we represent perhaps the most progressive, environmentally conscious furniture manufacturer in the world. Whenever possible we offer products that contain recycled materials. We continue working toward more sustainable practices in our own operations and help our customers by supporting their efforts to recycle office furnishings when they are ready to upgrade or replace items. SupplySource Office Interiors understands and can help with design, recommendations, and documentation for LEED scoring and other programs, such as Greenguard, that certify your own environmental efforts.
